

Gender Pay Gap Report 2017

For the first time, this year all large UK companies employing 250 people or more are required to report on their gender pay gap.

As a large Scottish employer and quality meat product manufacturer, we welcome this initiative as UK business seeks to tackle the gender pay gap that exists today.

All UK businesses 18%

Scotbeef 8% For all UK businesses the average hourly earnings are 18.1% lower for women than men.

In our business we currently have a gap of 8%.

However, we are aware that we have more progress to make. Our business will look to improve our gender pay gap over the coming years by focusing on the key activities that will drive improvements within our people plan.

To understand the data, it is worth understanding the context of our business report from 5th April 2017.

Scotbeef Ltd, as a legal entity, employs in excess of 250 colleagues across 4 sites: meat processing factories at Queenslie, East Kilbride, Wolverhampton and an abattoir at Bridge of Allan The data reports collectively across the 4 sites.

The majority of our colleagues are factory production line based and historically the meat industry has been male dominated with it's butchery focused operations. Together with long service from colleagues and a low turnover of staff, such an imbalance will take time and concerted industry wide effort to address.

Within management and support functions there are a variety of technical and professional roles available, attracted from a broader range skill set and therefore gender ratios are more balanced.

The company does not operate a traditional bonus scheme, but has made discretionary payments to recognise exceptional performance, when evident...

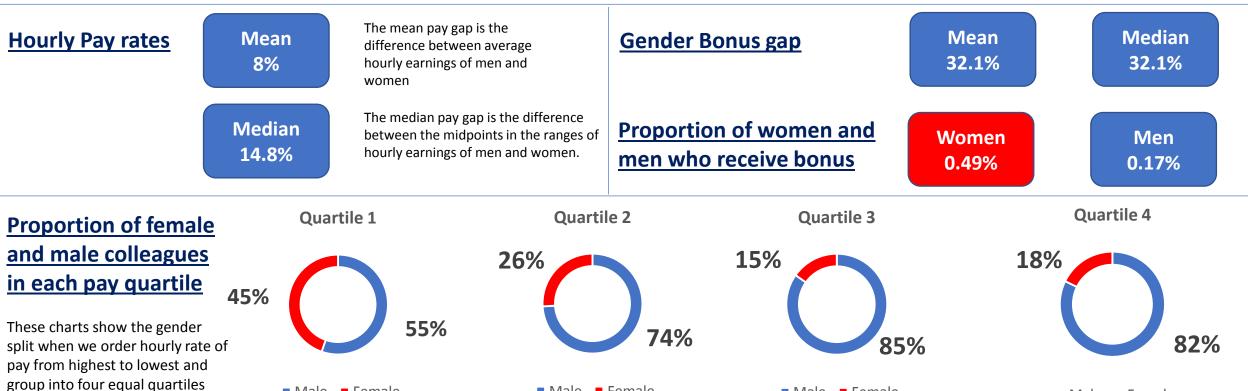

We can confirm that our data is accurate
